

Developing or updating a healthy eating policy, is an important step in ensuring long-term and sustainable commitment to the Policy directive in your health service.

Policies, procedures and guidelines

Health services are required to report if they have a healthy eating policy or procedure as part of Policy directive reporting requirements. This can also include a catering policy, guide or supplement.

Healthy eating policies should refer to providing catering in line with Policy directive requirements at least 50% GREEN and no RED options available via catering).

This policy, procedure or guideline should:

- Outline the relevant Policy directive requirements – click here to access
- Identify the instances where the Policy directive applies (retail, vending and catering)
- Include what is out of scope of the Policy directive (food brought in from home and patient and residential menus)
- Include dates for review and list the person responsible for maintaining and implementing the policy.

By having a healthy eating policy, procedure or guideline your health service:

- Meets a reporting requirement of the Policy directive

- Demonstrates an ongoing commitment to staff wellbeing by providing healthier food and drink options
- Embeds a healthy eating culture
- Ensures healthy eating is promoted across the whole health service (for example, hospitals, community health, residential aged care and mental health).
